WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW ABOUT SAFEGUARDING ATHLETES
SAFEGUARDING THE PLAYERS FROM

HARASSMENT & ABUSE

- Harassment and sexual abuse cases are increasingly common, which damage the careers of athletes and need to be restrained by officers (coaches).

- Most complaints occur in elite sport, especially in the relationship of people with different hierarchies, such as between coaches and athletes or between older and novice athletes and even between athletes and maids.

- Most sexual harassment occurs in female athletes.
HARASSMENT & ABUSE

What are sexual harassment and sexual abuse?
Both sexual harassment and sexual abuse are expressions of the greater power of one person over another. In sport we believe that women and girls are more frequent victims of harassment and abuse than men and boys. Many females drop out of sport rather than continue being subjected to the undermining effects of constant harassment and abuse: others endure the sexual attention of their male coaches or peers because of fear, desire for athletic reward, low self-esteem or ignorance of who to turn to for help. Typically, abused athletes keep quiet because they fear that they will either be accused of consenting or of inventing the whole thing.
HARASSMENT & ABUSE

WHAT IS SEXUAL HARASSMENT?

Sexual harassment is unwanted, often persistent, sexual attention. It may include:

- written or verbal abuse or threats
- sexually oriented comments
- jokes, lewd comments or sexual innuendoes
- taunts about body, dress, marital status or sexuality
- shouting and/or bullying
- ridiculing or undermining of performance or self-respect
- sexual or homophobic graffiti

- practical jokes based on sex
- intimidating sexual remarks, invitations or familiarity
- domination of meetings, training sessions or equipment
- condescending or patronising behaviour
- physical contact, fondling, pinching or kissing
- sex-related vandalism
- offensive ‘phone calls or photos
- bullying on the basis of sex

WHAT IS SEXUAL ABUSE?

Sexual abuse often occurs after careful grooming of the athlete until she believes that sexual involvement with her abuser is acceptable, unavoidable or a normal part of her training or everyday behaviour. It may include:

- exchange of rewards or privileges for sexual favours
- groping
- indecent exposure
- rape
- anal or vaginal penetration by penis, fingers or objects
- forced sexual activity
- sexual assault
- physical or sexual violence
- incest
HARASSMENT & ABUSE

Who is at risk?

Risk of sexual harassment or sexual abuse arises from a complex interplay of factors including:

- weak organisational controls within sport clubs
- dominating and controlling behavior by coaches and vulnerability
- low self esteem and high ambition amongst athletes

Particular dangers arise where such athletes become emotionally reliant on or obsessed with their coaches and where their coaches are not subject to independent monitoring.
Sexual harassment in sport takes on unique dimensions because of the power relationships established with coaches and because of the necessary focus on athletes’ bodies. Recognition of sexual harassment in sport has come at the highest levels. The International Olympic Committee issued a Consensus Statement in 2007 which reported that: “Sexual harassment and abuse happen in all sports and at all levels. Prevalence appears to be higher in elite sport.”
Laws on sexual harassment should be extended to apply to sporting activities, if not already covered through general non-discrimination laws or through employment, education, or goods and services legislation.
Because of the power dynamics between coaches and athletes, as well as the high stakes for many student and professional athletes whose sporting activities are integrated with many other aspects of their lives, such as work and education, sporting organizations should take the following steps to prevent and address sexual harassment:

- Develop policies and procedures for the prevention of sexual harassment and abuse;
- Prepare and implement codes of ethics and conduct for coaches, whether they work with adults or children;
- Monitor the implementation of these policies and procedures;
- Evaluate the impact of these policies in identifying and reducing sexual harassment and abuse;
- Provide training on how sexual harassment and sexual relationships can negatively influence coach-athlete relationships;

PREVENTION

- Develop complaint procedures that ensure privacy;
- Protect legal rights of athletes and coaches, and protect against retaliation;
- Screen all applicants for coaching staff and volunteer positions;
- Foster strong partnerships with parents/caregivers in the prevention of sexual harassment and abuse;
- Promote and support research on these issues;
- Foster a climate of open discussion about the issues of sexual harassment and abuse so that athletes with problems feel confident enough to speak out; and
- Develop athlete autonomy wherever possible including adopting coaching styles which give optimum autonomy and responsibility to athletes.
